

TO ADVOCATE FOR GEORGIA TECH

Advocacy is a high impact, low time commitment way to stay engaged with your alma mater.

1. Sign up

Visit our website, www.gov.gatech.edu/gtcj to sign up to become a member of the Capitol Jackets affinity group. You will be automatically subscribed to receive our newsletter, Capitol Buzz, with up-to-date legislative information about your alma mater.

2. Get to know your legislators

Arrange personal visits and send hand-written letters to build a relationship with your state elected officials. These are high impact ways to connect and show your support of Georgia Tech. Also be sure to follow your legislators' newsletters and social media posts that aim to keep constituents informed of key issues in their communities.

3. Connect with other alumni in your community

Engage with your local alumni network and open the door to more opportunities to advocate for Tech. Find out how to host an alumni event with a Government Relations Officer to learn more about advocacy efforts and Georgia Tech's impact around the state. Email us today at capitoljackets@gatech.edu.

4. Attend Georgia Tech's annual Legislative Briefing event

Each year, advocates and friends of Georgia Tech gather on campus in anticipation of the upcoming legislative session that typically runs January-April. This event highlights Georgia Tech's and the University System's legislative priorities for the year and is announced to all Capitol Jackets members.

5. Stay informed and spread the good word

One of the easiest ways to advocate for Georgia Tech is to tell the Tech story to those around you. If you are interested in exploring the Georgia Tech campus of today to assist you in being a more informed advocate, contact us at capitoljackets@gatech.edu.
